

ABSTRACT

A medical electrical lead comprising an elongated conductor including one or more wires made of a modified MP35N alloy; wherein the MP35N alloy is formed from a melt composition modified to reduce an amount of titanium-based inclusion forming elements.